WASHINGTON

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 13.

THE GLITTER THAT IS NOT GOLD .- Scarcely a week passes in which some valuable mineral discovery in the United States is not proclaimed through the public newspapers. Gold, silver, copper, lead, iron and coal are developed successively; and while the proprietors of the lands upon which they are found are greatly enriched, the public in general profit

In the discoveries of the arts and sciences this coincidence is often manifested in like manner. The revelation of the success of an individual in any given pursuit suggests the subject to the minds of others, who forthwith follow and improve upon what he has done, or exert their efforts with equal good fortune in collateral pursuits.

The example of success is a powerful incen tive; and the earth, like the broad field of science, will only yield its riches to the active mind and the diligent hand.

But when the dangers, the privations and the risks of the California gold-hunter are remembered-when the success that must attend the right direction of labor, capital and skill amid the secure and accustomed homes and the wholesome restraints of our older communities, are borne in mind-we cannot but marvel at the adventure of many of those whom we so often see departing for the far off regions of gold.

The early settlers of the old colonies, who formed the nuclei of our present States, brought with them their morality, their religion, their laws, and the love of liberty that prompted them to forsake the scenes and associations of their early homes; and, as the salt of the earth. they savored the communities that grew up around them. In California, as in other recently settled portions of our wide domain, may be found many men whose lives, and character, and principles have been well established, and from whom may well be expected the happy influences of good citizenship; yet, this expectation is not generally realized. Disorder, dissipation, extravagance, crime, and wretchedness are so general, that none are regarded as safe who seek these fields of labor or speculation.

Whence is all this change? Why did the old settlements of Puritans, of Friends, of Episcopalians, of Roman Catholics, and of the other denominations, preserve unimpaired, amid the new scenes around them, their staid and upright character-their respect for laws, both human and divine? We can answer. They came not to tarry, but to dwell in the land they had chosen. They came not to reap a golden harvest in a brief and dangerous season, but to make permanent and happy homes, and to plant around their abodes the young trees that should shelter them in old age. They came not to live a few brief years, amid social privation and its many temptations, but, with their wives and children, to preserve purity and peace and virtue in their dwellings. With these they transplanted to their new theatre all the happiness all the restraints, all the good, of the world they had deserted, and left its pride, its luxuries, its vanities, its vices, behind them. They came to subdue and replenish the earth, not to demoralize and devastate.

Is it so with the adventurers of the presen day? They are bold, fearless, enterprising, intelligent, and industrious; and they go to the field of their labors full of hope, and energy, and wise determination; but not to make it their home. They violate the laws of nature, and place themselves beyond the wholesome and necessary influences to which men should ever be subject in life; and they pay the fearful penalty. Physical and moral disease prevail amid drunkenness, riot, violence and Lyne

Life is of brief and uncertain continuance and its every hour should be at once rationally enjoyed and profitably appropriated. If there be any whose lease is of a definite duration, and who think it well to devote a certain portion of life to the sole purpose of acquiring gold singular; but even they may fail to receive a full recompense for their sacrifices. Others, we are sure, risk too much in devoting the certain present to the pursuit we have described. for all the gratifications the greatest success can bring in the uncertain future.

If California be a rich, a fertile and desired land, it will be peopled by communities who will go thither and enjoy it, and dwell in it for all time. That it is such a country, and that patient industry may there find a contented and prosperous home, we entertain no doubt. But appropriate verse, written for the occasion: the only safe and wise way of going to it is to While Magic Beauty round us holds her sway, unite in communities-to take with us the comforts, the joys and the security without which "there is no place like home." This remark is true of all colonization. Men, in their foolish parsimony, sometimes devise schemes at variance with this view; but, if our observation has been correctly made, they have always confessed their folly in the end.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT OF GEORGETOWN COL-LEGE .- A fine and brilliant auditory attended to hear the opening address of the Rev. Dr. RYDER yesterday; and the presence of the beauty of Washington and Georgetown, and the cheering strains of music by the Marine Band, lent charms to the occasion. The orator was at once practical, instructive and eloquent, and his address is the subject of general commendation.

We have two medical schools in our midst: and from the experience we have had of the one, joyed one before. and the high reputation of the gentlemen who are embarking upon the other, we have every reason to be proud of the elevated condition of medical science in our community.

With the great and increasing advantages lieve that this will soon be the acknowledged seat of the first medical schools in the United States. They who know the character of the this as a vain boast or an unfounded hope.

it would be better to forbear for a while.

HORRID MURDER .- Yesterday evening a most revolting murder took place in this city. John Day, a bricklayer, shot his wife with a revolver, firing two balls, and causing her death in about half an hour. From the evidence at the coroner's inquest this morning, it appears that Mrs. Day, who was living with her parents, on the north side of D, between 13th and 14th streets, had been walking with her sisters and cousin. up and down the pavement near the house. Day came up to them as they reached the door, and his wife made some remark about the hot weather. He replied, "that it was hot enough for her to be promenading the avenue all day, and he would shoot her for it." Some of the young persons had gone into the house, and left Day, his wife, sister-in-law, and her cousin standing at the door. Immediately after his last remark, he put his hand to his side-pocket and drew a pistol; at which Mrs. Day and her sister ran along the porch, Day following them. He fired the first shot just as Mrs. Day reached the kitchen door, which took effect in her arm, and caused her to fall. He then stepped upon her dress to prevent her escape, and fired a second shot, which passed in her left side and came out at her neck. He then turned and walked off down the street, but was shortly after arrested by officer Boss, and conveyed to the watch-house, whence he was taken to jail to await the result of the coroner's jury.

From the evidence of Mr. James A. King w learn that the prisoner had had the pistol in his pocket throughout the day, and had told him (Mr. King) that he was "going to shoot somebody that had ruined his peace." He had been separated from his wife some five weeks, in consequence of his ill treatment towards her. He had been heard to threaten to choke her. and take her life, several times; and had drawn knives and a pistol upon her in the presence of her mother. Mrs. Day's maiden name was Catharine Fridley, and she was about twentyone years of age.

The coroner's jury was composed of the following gentlemen : Messrs. John H. Goddard, Clark, Smith, Gobright, Thompson, Handy, Beck, Trunnell, Barnaclo, Wollard, Drury and Morsell. The evidence of all the witnesses is substantially the same, and our statement is in ccordance with it.

SABBATH-SCHOOLS OF WASHINGTON. - The arge assemblage convened at the F street Presbyterian Church last night gave a sure indication of the deep interest felt by our citizens in behalf of the Sabbath-school cause. The occasion was that of the regular monthly meeting of the "Sabbath-school Union," at which Mr. F. A. Tschiffely presided. The indisposition of the Secretary (Mr. O. C. Wight) having detained him from the meeting, Mr. W. L. Waller was appointed Secretary pro tem.

The devotional exercises were led by the Rev. G. M. Butler, Messrs. Spear, Ricketts, and Magruder. In addition to the harmony of the united schools, select hymns were sung respectively by those of the Foundry Church, English Lutheran Church, Fourth Presbyterian Church, Wesley Chapel, F street Presbyterian Church, and Union Chapel.

During the evening, brief addresses were nade by the respective superintendents of the Fourth Presbyterian and Ninth street M. P. schools, respecting the wide field of usefulness afforded by this institution, and the many motives for persevering therein. In this connection the latter referred, with much feeling, to the demise of Wm. W. Billing, (recorded in our paper of yesterday,) who was a faithful member of his school, the instructions of which had exerted a most salutary influence on the mind of that interesting youth.

"Blest be the tie that binds," etc., was then sung by the entire assembly, followed with the benediction by Rev. G. M. Butler.

SARATOGA SPRINGS .- We learn from the New York papers that the good people of this favorite and fashionable summer retreat are determined to put a stop to some of the nuisances which have for years infested that delightful village, in the shape of gambling-houses, &c.; and to that end procured the passage of an act at the recent session of the Legislature, confor use in the later period, their case is very ferring additional powers on the trustees of the village, to enable them to prosecute the keepers and abettors of all such resorts.

> A BEAUTIFUL CORONATION .- Signor Carusi's May Ball came off last night, and a brilliant affair it was. The children entered the hall a little before nine o'clock; and, after marching a short time, proceeded to crown their queen. The first maid of honor performed the interesting ceremony of crowning with becoming grace, repeating, at the time, the following brief and

We crown thoe, happy maid, our Queen of May; But, lovely Queen, heed well this truth— Joys, like these flowers, decay! Age follows in the train of youth,-It is not always May.

To this the queen responded as follows: Flowers fade, 'tis true-their fragrance sweet Lasts only for a day; But memories of a scene like this Can never pass away.

Accept her thanks who truly feels The honor that you pay To her, in crowning her this night

The crowning of the queen was followed by wo very pretty fancy dances, which, in our humble opinion, were performed in a most creditable manner. After these, cotillons, polkas, etc., occupied the rest of the evening, and were (if appearances may be trusted) well enjoyed. We heard a gentleman remark that he had attended many balls, but had never en-

At a late hour the company retired, appa rently well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Signor C. deserves much credit for his efforts to render his May Festival-what in truth it here offered to the student, we cannot but be- was-a chaste and pleasant entertainment for the citizens and children of Washington.

A PRETTY DUCK .- At dusk last evening, advantages to which we allude will not regard lady of color, and of a very dark shade, attempted to cross the Tiber, near Hoover's slaughter house, and would have entered it if THE STREETS .- The warm weather has sprung she had not been-must we say it-too drunk. upon us suddenly, and some of our streets are As it was, however, she unwillingly took to the not entirely prepared for it. Let the work of cool water and would have been drowned in itpurification go on at any expense. We are re- if, firstly, the water had been deep enough; and quested to name certain localities, but perhaps secondly, a gentleman had not been near to pull her out.

We are informed that the WASHINGTON LIGHT INFANTRY have not fully determined upon the trip spoken of in our paper of yesterday. The moonlight parades will no doubt come off. It is a beautiful company, and we are gratified to perceive that the band is inspired with the true ardor. Mr. Marsolette, the leader, is doing his best, the number is increasing, and the exercises effecting great improvement.

SHAMEFUL .- A couple of young men, who quarrelled at some place of amusement last night, repaired to the vicinity of the Orphans' Asylum and Van Ness's vault, at about two o'clock this morning, and fought out, or fought about the difficulty. A large crowd of persons accompanied them, and the people of the neighborhood were terrified by their hideous oaths and dog-like ferocity. We have not yet learned the names of the parties, nor do we understand that the police have taken hold of them. The vile outrage, however, shall not go unwhipped

Fugitives .- From a letter we have seen, we earn that in Adams county, Ohio, during the first week of this month, eighteen slaves from Kentucky were captured and returned, and that eight others wholly escaped.

THE MONUMENT .- The first number of this new weekly paper has just been received. It is well described in the prospectus to be found in our columns-well printed, on good paper, and filled with an interesting original and selected miscellany.

WHY So ?- The pavement on the avenue be ween 17th and 18th streets needs relaying.

The Concerts of the Carneross Family are better and better attended every evening, and the people appear better and better pleased with them. Last night the ladies came to hear them as thick as roses in June, and twice as

The Legislature of Maine will meet to-morrow, the 14th instant. The principal business to come before them is the bill for a free banking law, and the districting of the State into Congressional districts.

TELEGRAPH FOR SALE AT AUCTION -House's printing telegraph between Boston and New York, with all the appurtenances thereto belonging, is advertised for sale at auction in Boston, on the 28th instant.

NATIONAL HALL.-If a really talented and peritorious actor deserves a benefit as is a benefit, Miss Julia Bennett should be greeted this evening with a crowded house. The fortu-nate few who last night did not go where the rest of man, woman, girl and boy-kind sought amusement, (at considerable expense, more or less,) enjoyed a rare treat in witnessing her impersonation of "Mary Gibbs," the Factory Girl, in "All is not gold that glitters." She is again to appear in the same character, and we would advise the ober-fastidious, as well as those who do not always look for perfection in every thing, to be present.

CITY WATCH-HOUSE.—John Key, John Lan-caster and Peter Brooks were found last night in tippling-houses unlawfully making a disturbance and keeping late hours. They paid costs and gave security.

Julia Galliger, Catharine Aken and Ellen

Aken strolled off across the commons yesterday evening, and did not behave themselves; so they were arrested, and required to pay costs and give bail; which they did. William McKinney and George Custis were drunk and disorderly: committed to the workhouse for thirty days each.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12—10 p. m.—Reception of the President in Philadelphia.—The President and Cabinet arrived at Wilmington about ten o'clock to-day. The Philadelphia committee had previously arrived on the steamer Roger Williams and been handsomely entertained. The President was welcomed by Mayor Evans responded. Mr. Crittenden being loudly called for also made a short address. The distinguished visiters were then escorted to the boat and embarked for Philadelphia. Mayor Gilpin received them on the boat, and Mr. Fillmore thanked him for the kind attention shown. A salute was fired from Fort Mifflin and the navy yard as they passed up the Delaware. A sumptuous dinner was served up on board the boat. A vast crowd was assembled on the wharf, and a grand military and civic procession was formed, which escorted the guests to their quarters at the United States Hotel. On their arrival there, the President, being loudly called for, appeared and made a brief harangue, which was responded to by enthusiastic cheers. Cries for Webster brought that gentleman out, and he deliv ered a few happy remarks. They start for New York to-morrow at ten o'clock, by the Amboy

Boston, May 12 .- Boston Affairs .- In the Supreme Court to-day a motion was made that the suits brought against Knight and Hughes by the Abolitionists, at the time they were here to reclaim Wm. and Ellen Crafts, be dismissed unless a responsible endorser was given for the costs. After hearing arguments against the motion from Dana, Kildreth and Sewall, Chief Justice Shaw decided that a responsible endorser must be procured or the cases would be dismissed. So they are likely to fall to the ground.

The suit against District Attorney Lunt for the arrest of Barton, a negro barber at Salem, who was taken by mistake for one of the rescu ers of the fugitive Shadrack, was non-suited. Barton not appearing. The damages had been laid at $10,000.

Boston, May 12 .- From the African Squad ron .- Advices have been received here from Port Praya to April 3d. The U. S. ship Portsmouth, Commodore Gregory, and Dale, Com-modore Pearson, and Porpoise, Lieut. Com'g Lardner, were at Port Praya. The squadron has been actively engaged in endeavoring to suppress the slave trade, but, notwithstanding all the vigilance and skill of the commanders, the trade continues to be carried on along th southern coast to a very considerable extent. mouth will return to the States.

The health of the officers and crew was good.

TURKISH FASHIONS .- For two days past, two females have distinguished themselves in Broadway, as pioneers in the revolution of petticoats. On Friday afternoon, between three and five o'clock, they promenaded Broadway in the new costume of which so much has been said recently.-N. Y. Herald.

A CITY BLOCK FOR THE WASHINGTON MONU-MENT .- In the Board of Aldermen, on Tuesday, Alderman Dooley presented the following:

"Resolved, That a special committee of five be appointed by this Board, to report upon a suitable stone prepared to form a part of the Monument now erecting at Washington, in commemoration of the services of the illustrious Washington."-N. Y. Tribune.

FOR THE TELEGRAPH.—MESSRS. EDITORS: I read with surprise a publication in your last paper bearing the name of one James Robertson—a streamen of the James Robertson—a streamen of the venus home well known to hotel-keepers in this place. The "crittur" himself is too contemptible to be noticed: but I would simply place a few queries by the side of his to the people of Washington:

1. Should the proprietor of a public house be required to show favor to one notorious for "ringing in" on hotels?

2. Should he be required to furnish food and shelter to aforesald individual, when he is already in arrears to a considerable amount, with no prospect of payment but the recovery of a claim (in a horn!) against the Government of the United States—he being at the same time able to "earn his bread by the sweat of his brow?"

3. Who believes that any one has ever been turned out of a hotel because he was a "temperance man?"

4. If the keeper of a hotel makes a practice of taking in "gentlemen upon the town," how long will it be before he will be on the "floating public?"
